Deadwood Festivities.

The long, weary journey from Sidney had come to an end; our hero, who had persuaded a "bull team" in advance of a freight wagon to visit the land of gold arrived, soiled and weather-beaten, in the metropolitan city of Deadwood. The weary march was forgotten and joy was unconfined. A fervent admirer of the fair sex, he sought the dance house, where "take your partner" is the only introduction needed. When the exciting moment of "gents to the right" was announced his collossal cowhides smote the floor like the stamps of a quartz mill. When the welcome sound of "balance all" rang through the crowded hall our pilgrim uttered one long hoop-ee and shouldering his fair partner absorbed a tumblerful of burning fluid. "Partners for a quadrille." Our hero sprang upon the floor and extemporized a break-down. "Dog-on my pelt, I am a tiger of the woods. Come her, gal; let's have some more tarantler juice." "All set," shouted the floor manager. "Scrape them cat's innards and let's codfish around." In the excitement of "all hands round" a heavy weight unfortunately collided with our pilgrim, and explanations were of no avail. "I am bad," shouted our hero; "let me at him; let me chew his mane; I'm a coyote. Let go my harness; I am a yellow-tailed wolf; let me pick his eyes out; I'm a woolly horse hard to curry; hoop-ee: I'm an elephant; I'm—" just then he trod on a favored corn of a hurdy-berder, who pasted our hero one between the eyes, which seated him violently upon the floor. As he arose, blowing the ruby fluid from his nasal promotory, he reiterated, "I'm an elephant, but my hide's tore."—Black Hills Pioneer.

There is no over-production in France. The thirty-five million French people have eighteen hundred million dollars circulating, legal tender money, being an ample and generous supply, sufficient to carry on all their industries and enable every one to have employment and consume liberally. On the other hand, the forty-four million of people of the United States have nominally only eight hundred and forty million dollars to carry on their industries, which is insufficient to give employment to the workingmen and enable them to consume.

MONDAY.....NOVEMBER 12, 1877.

Conkling's Mistake.

Senator Conkling has suffered his chagrin to betray his better judgment and spoken of President Hayes in a way which does himself no honor. He alleges that the President is Democratic in everything but name, and has a Democratic cabinct. He further tries to cast a shadow upon Hayes' title. Without stopping to ask proof of these things we should like to know wherein Roscoe Conkling's conduct difiers from that of any confirmed Democrat. By what right does the New York Senator make his personal dissatisfaction a public grievance, and why does he assume that there is but one way in which Republicanism can work? What is the chance for teaching Mr. Conkling, that while the nation respects his record it is not anxious to see him self-elected dictator to the general government? It is barely possible that the people can reason upon the cause of his sorehead, and that his pet process of bullying may cease to be effective.

If Mr. Conkling is sincere why did he not learn all of these objections and advance them when the Electoral Commission was in session? If these accusations are the offspring of facts and subject to proof, he has wronged the nation and neglected his duty in not speaking his mind. Taking that view, Mr. Conkling is an active accomplice in a most stupendous fraud, and now seeks reward for informing after the fraud was consummated. Is it not plain that the Senator confines himself to assertions, and instead of proof offers his prestige as a political bully, and an exhibition of malignance unworthy of a statesman. If Mr. Conkling's position can be fortified with proof, then it is the duty of the Republican party to repudiate Mr. Hayes, root and branch, and brand him as a usurper who succeeded through the efforts of Conkling, Morton and other distinguished men. If the Senator does not speedily establish the entire truth of his defamatory charges, then it is the duty of Republicans to mark Mr. Conkling as a malicious politician of the "rule or ruin" class, who forgets the dignity of an American Statesman in his desire to control the petty appointments of customs and naval officers.

It is becoming very plain that Conkling is defending precedent and not principle. That this nation sees its executive officer insulted, hears prophecies of the disruption of a great party and listens to gloomy forebodings as to the final prosperity of the nation; and all because of what? Has the constitution been disregarded? has any republican principle been outraged? No, the officers appointed have not met the personal views of the New York Senator. Honesty has come into power, a vicious precedent has been buried and intrigue sheds crocodile tears at its grave. Now, if Mr. Conkling does not respect his own record, the people are not called upon to do so. His malicious remarks make him out a very unworthy citizen of this Republic, or a man who knows the truth and dares not maintain it. In either case we believe the Republican party will live, and the nation flourish, with Democratic Smith in a country postoffice, and Roscoe Conkling pleased or displeased. This country made Conkling, not he the country; and what we would now suggest is that the Senator proceed, and by his course inform the nation whether it has been honoring a statesman or a very fortunate political bully.

A Republican Senatorial Caucus was lately held in Washington. Senator Conkling aired his private griefs in the matter of appointments and was informed that he could not count upon absolutely owning the Senate of the United States. Removals for cause were requested, and the general sentiment favored intelligent action upon all appointments, and discountenanced any tacit opposition to the President.

Forty-eight persons in the service of Ex-Sultan Murad have been arrested for participation in the late conspiracy, against the Porte. Forty of these enterprising men were choked to death for fear of mistake, and the other eight will probably be tried.

Rumors of peace are again circulating in Europe.

The New York Times criticizes Conkling with bitter severity, describes him as a remarkable actor and only successful in studied efforts and when he can bring in play his truly wonderful histrionic ability and keen sense of stage effect. In his recent interview he shows himself in his natural light, and the obvious result is that he sinks to a lower level than he has heretofore occupied. Conkling has always assumed to be the most courteous of men, the pink of chivalry. Did he wish to attack an opponent on the floor of the Senate, he did so with a delicacy and polite consideration worthy of all commendation. Now he expresses his contempt for the chief minister of the nation in whose Senate he occupies a seat, by calling him "little Evarts." Coming from what Conkling would term an average American citizen, such an expression could only be considered as an evidence of ill-breeding. When the Senator indulges his petty spite to such an extent, however, it is only natural to ask if the Secretary is to be called "little Evarts," by what name shall we know Roscoe Conkling? Roberts, of Utica, is also spoken of as "little Roberts," and abused without stint. The Senator makes no secret of his hostility to the national administration, and, with more frankness than he displayed at Rochester, sneers at Secretary Schurz and the four members of the Cabinet, who he says are not Republicans.

THE REFRIGERATOR SLAUGHTER HOUSE.—The refrigerator slaughter house now being built here for the purpose of preparing meats for shipment East and West, is being enclosed as rapidly as possible. In a few weeks the building will be arranged for the purpose for which it is designed, and regular shipments will be made to Chicago and probably New York. Then a Nevadan visiting those cities can feast on jucy steaks from the Humboldt or Oregon cattle.—Silver State.

Sitting Bull says he hates the Americans and loves the Queen. He won't fight her, but when his young men get into condition he proposes to come over and whip America. That Commission was what broke the camel's back.

Conkling called ex-Senator Roberts "Little Roberts," and Roberts takes up a handful of mud from the slough of reminiscence and throws it at Roscoe. Roberts says that the Senator is a chronic growler. Such quarrels raise our ideas of the majesty and reverence which surrounds the modern statesman.

The disaffected workingmen of San Francisco are still making speeches, and each day some of the orators are led to jail. The statute of limitation will do away with the disaffected, if the process goes on.

The House has voted to reduce the army about 5,000 men, leaving the strength at 20,000. The measure should be defeated.

Even the New York appointments will probably be confirmed, notwithstanding Roscoe's ire.

Never do a man a favor. You will thus avoid being pestered with a superfluity of false professions of eternal friendship, gratitude and all that is balderdash.

Fires—At Pittsburg, Pa., loss $14,000; Yooklyn, Pa., loss $50,000

Senator Morton leaves his entire estate to his wife requesting her to assist his sons in obtaining an education.

Jules Greoy has been elected President of the French Chamber of Deputies.

THE ORIGIN OF POSTAGE STAMPS.—The origin of the stamp had a tinge of romance in it. It was thirty-seven years ago that Rowland Hill, while crossing a district in the north of England, arrived at the door of an inn where a postman had stopped to deliver a letter. A young girl came out to receive it; she turned it over and over in her hand and asked the price of postage. This was a large sum, and evidently the girl was poor, for the postman demanded a shilling. She sighed sadly, and said the letter was from her brother, but that she had no mony; and she returned the letter to the postman. Touched with pity, Mr. Hill paid the postage and gave the letter to the girl, who seemed very much embarrassed. Scarcely had the postman turned his back when the young inn-keeper's daughter confessed that it was a trick between her and her brother. Some signs on the envelope told her all she wanted to know, but the letter contained no writing. "We are both so poor," she added, "that we invented this mode of corresponding without paying for our letters." The traveler, continuing his road, asked himself if a system giving place to such frauds was not a vicious one. Before sunset Rowland had planned to organize the postal service on a new basis—with what success is known to the world.

Nevada Co. Narrow Gauge Railroad.

A correspondent writing to the Watsonville (Cal.) Pajaronian gives the following glowing description of the narrow-gauge railroad between Colfax and Nevada City, and as the same will be appreciated by many of our citizens who were former residents of that section, we copy what he has to say:

The station bell sounds, and conductor McKinney's voice thunders out "All aboard," and the passengers for Grass Valley and Nevada rush for the little train of the Nevada county Narrow Gauge railroad. The passenger cars on this line are the most comfortable coaches in the State, being neatly carpeted and arranged (the generous gift of ladies of Nevada county), and even provided with spittoons, for the use of the tobacco-chewing portion of the sterner sex. Those spittoons are seldom used; they teach a very strong lesson and every man who sees one immediately thinks it out of place.

Out from the station's twinkling lights into the cold, clear moonlight of Long Ravine, we rush, the little engine whistling all the way down the grade. Behind us, slowly panting up the hillside, comes the monster overland train, its noise painfully deafening. Down the ravine, now skirting its sharp sides, through cuts and around sharp points, we fly, until we reach the level grade running to Long Ravine bridge (one of the highest trestles on the overland route); under the bridge we dash, and as we emerge our engine blows back a loud blast of triumph to the overland, which is at the trestle. Back and forth the three engines shout, until the sounds fill the gorges of the American and Bear rivers, and borne by the chill evening breeze, a faint echo comes down from perilous Cape Horn—Cape Horn, thronged above us, so coldly overlooking the grand canyon of the Sierras. This is the programme every night. Long Ravine bridge is the passing place of the trains, and the locomotives whistle to each other as they part, good night, and God-speed on their respective journeys. We pass from the ravine, a mournful whistle floating back, and start down Bear river grade at a fearful speed, the wheels gritting and snapping at the track every point we round. Down brakes is whistled, and we creep on to the Bear river trestle, probably the most hazardous trestle in our State. The moon looked down peacefully, shedding its light on the slopes of manzanita and pine, until each leaf and spear looked bejeweled. Below, the Bear river flowed, wasted away to a mere rivulet; and we thought of that same stream, years before, in the dead of winter, when it had swept away the old stage crossing, and spread out over the flats, rendering the passage of the stage coach impossible, and we had to construct a family raft to cross the swollen stream. Now, how changed! What was then considered an impossibility—railroad—has supplanted the old Concord coaches; the turnpike road is deserted, and even the recollection of it faint; the "prairie schooner" freight wagons lay idle; the toll houses, whose log fires had been so inviting on snowy nights, are closed up, and rapidly decaying; the teams of noble greys are broken up and sold; coaches and drivers gone to new camps, undisturbed as yet by the locomotives whistle. Somehow, as we thought, we wished for the days of the stage, and a seat on the box with the driver, eagerly listening to his budget of news from home. The cars seemed too confining; there was not the same companionship among the passengers as on the old time coach; we missed the crack of buckskin, the fearful "keep your seat" dash down the long grade, and the quick turn of the wheels as the coach swings around at the journey's end. "Tickets sir!" We would have been back on the coach, in spirit, but for that command.

ENTERPRISING FARMERS.—Farmers without enterprise don't amount to much. They are not worth ten cents adozen. They don't read the agricultural or other papers, because they don't care to inform themselves about what is going on in the world. If they can make enough to supply the wants of the body they are satisfied. They care nothing for the wants or the improvement of the mind. That is the last object of their thoughts, if they have what may be dignified as thoughts. The enterprising farmer is a different sort of a man. He always has his eyes and ears open, that he may learn what is going on in the world and take advantage of the knowledge he gains. He reads the agricultural papers that he may learn of the improvements that are going on. He learns what he can of new systems of culture, new seeds, new varieties—and tests them. He tries the improved breeds of stock as fast as he is able. He wants Berkshire or Poland-China hogs instead of hazel-splitters. He wants something beside scrub cattle. He don't want the long-legged, bare-belly scrub sheep, when other breeds are so easily obtained. He don't want scrub horses when those of far better blood, style and substance can be obtained. The farmer of enterprise is a desirable acquisition in any community. Let us develop more of them.—Rural World.

The Russians are gaining ground in Armenia. They claim a victory near Kars, and report that Plevna is completely invested.

PRUDENCE, FRUGALITY, FORESIGHT.—Elijah Hitchcock was a Connecticut constable, whose character being under scrutiny, Deacon Solomon Rising was inquired of about him.

"Deacon Rising," said the questioner, "do you think Mr. Hitchcock is a dishonest man?" (Very promptly). "Oh, no, sir; not by any means."

"Well, do you think he is a mean man?"

"Well, with regard to that," said the Deacon a little more deliberately, "I may say that I don't really think he's a mean man; I've sometimes thought he was what you might call a keerful man—a prudent man, so to speak."

"Well, I mean this: that one time he had an execution for $4 against the old Widow Witter back here, and he went up to her house and levied it on a flock of ducks; and he chased them ducks one at a time round and round the house pootty much all day, and every time he catched a duck he'd sit right down and wring its neck, an' charge mileage; an' his milage 'mount to more'n the debt. Nothing mean 'bout it as I know of, but I always thought after that, that Mr. Hitchcock was a very prudent man."

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE Second Judicial District of the State of Nevada, in and for the county of Washoe. The State of Nevada sends to Hill & Oakes, Anselmo Torrelli, Luiga Dellapiga, Albert Mau, G. W. Mapes and B. F. Sheldon, greeting:

You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendants, by A. D. Sisson, W. W. Wallace and Clark Crocker, copartners, under name of Sisson, Wallace & Co., as plaintiffs, in the District Court of the Second Judicial District, in and for the county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and answer the complaint therein, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons (exclusive of the day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover $628.78, with interest, all in U. S. gold coin, from defendants, Hill & Oakes, alleged to be due for lumber and material furnished them by the Reno Lumber Company, and to foreclose and determine a mechanics lien, claimed against lots one and two in block P, on the corner of Virginia and Second streets, in the town of Reno, county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and the frame buildings thereon. Plaintiffs allege an assignment of said defendants' lien to plaintiffs, that defendants Torrelli, Dellapiga, Mau, Mapes and Sheldon, have, or claim to have, some interest in the property and that the materials furnished for the construction of the buildings aforesaid, and with the knowledge of the defendants last named, and their failure to give notice in writing by posting within three days after obtaining knowledge that they would not be responsible for such materials. Plaintiff prays judgment of foreclosure and for personal judgment against Hill & Oakes; all of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said court at Reno, in said county. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiffs will apply to the court for the relief demanded.

In testimony whereof, I, P. B. Comstock, have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court, this 25th day of July, A. D. 1877. P. B. COMSTOCK, Clerk.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

BOMBARDED. — Last night several parties bombarded the dance house on Second street. About 11 o'clock, when the usual racket was in its height, a Chinhse bomb exploded in the middle of the dive. The house was filled with smoke and the fragments of the bomb. The explosion put all the lights out and darkness covered the enraged denizens. The lamps were soon lighted, the coast found to be clear and the noise set in, but lo! not a mysterious writing upon the wall, no "mene tikel upharsin," but something as effective.

Another Chinese bomb passed over the transom and spread dismay and raised the angry passions of the presiding beauty—the boss. Her righteous soul waxed wroth, and she would have slaughtered upon the spot the base man, who had thus sought to despoil her sacred precincts. New lights were brought into requisition and the bombardment was renewed. Frenzy and despair sat upon her, as doth the moping owl on the naked limb of a forlorn tree, and to the morn his notes doth pour in inharmonious numbers. She closed for the night and repaired to her home, there to bewail the perversity of the genus hoodlum, or the provoked citizen. Alas her musings were disturbed by another bomb. She frothed at the mouth in her sublime rage and would have torn her hair, like Piute maidens when moved by grief, but her faithful paramour gently chided his dear, the bombardment cesaed, and soothed by his kind words she fell gently asleep in the noble man's arms. We don't design to be mean ourselves, but if that hell dive was summarily closed and the "boss" forced to leave town, justice would be vindicated, and morality would command a premium.

SNOW SHEDS BURNED—Sunday morning near the hour of two o'clock, a fire broke out in the snow sheds between Emigrant Gap and Blue Canyon, at a point known as Camp 27. A few minutes past two o'clock the alarm was given at Blue Canyon, and immediately a fire train was dispatch to the scene of confligration. A train was sent from Rocklyn, and one from the Summit. The fire burned 16 hours and consumed about 600 feet of snow shed, and some 650 cords of wood. The morning express train which is due here at 7 A. M. did not arrive until 9.50 P. M;

The stock market has throbbed once more and the old excitement has arisen again in many breasts. A booming stock market is a good thing for Nevada, provided that our citizens do not try to keep it booming. Don't get excited just because some one else has been struck by lightning, it don't happen to each one who happens to be out in the storm.

The preliminary examination of the case of the State vs. W. D. Philips, is now being held in the Justice Court. The testimony adduced thus far was not as favorable for defendant as that elicited at the Coroner's examination. Phillips will probably be held over to await the action of the Grand Jury.

TO-NIGHT.—There will be a temperance meeting to-night at the Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Drahms will address the meeting. Other speakers will follow. All may expect an interesting time, hence let all come. The meeting opens at 7 o'clock.

DIED.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. Winchester McBride, well known by most of our citizens. We will speak of the subject again to-morrow.

A heavy shower of rain fell last night. During the same time the mountains & hillsides were whitened with snow.

London Editors and Their Pay.

The London newspapers who keep correspondents in the field deal munificently with them. The offices furnish them with everything. Each of them has at least two horses, which the office pays for, and one or more servants. Forbes, the correspondent of the News, receives a clear salary of $5,000 a year and all his expenses paid. He is paid that amount by the News to retain his services, so as to prevent his writing for any other journal. When he is at work, then he is paid an additional amount, but he would receive the $5,000 were he not to a do stroke of work within the twelve months.

As stated in the former letter, editorial writers are not an office fixture here as in America. The men who furnish editorials for an English paper may, or may not, be professional writers—that is, writers for newspapers. They may be magazinists, or novel writers, or almost anything else. They occupy somewhat the position of the mercenary soldier whose fealty is due to the power which pays him, during the period for which he is employed.

Suppose the London Times wishes to retain the services of Prof. Musty Dryasdust for a leader writer. The editor sends for him, or to him, announces the wish, and if the professor consents he is paid a retainer, which varies according to the man employed. The retainer engages him for the Times, and he cannot write for any other daily paper. It does not, however, guarantee him constant employment. He may have been retained to write on will cases, and he writes only when there is a demand for an article on wills. A journal may have five or fifty men thus retained. Each day the editor decides what he wishes written, assigns the subject to the proper men, and pays them "by the piece." A retaining fee varies, of course, according to the quality of the man. As I have been told, and above said, Forbes, of the News, has a retainer each year of $5,000. The retainer does not usually include payment for services rendered. Editorials on the Times are paid for at rates varying from two to five guineas each.

There are sub-editors who have charge of foreign news, correspondence local topics, commercial affairs and the like, who is almost invariably a shorthand writer, gets from $15 to $25 per week.—Polinto's Letter to Chicago Times.

Hart, of the Reveille is going to publish the Sazerac lies in book form. Great Heavens! must we have all those fearful lies hurled at us in one volley?—Elko Post.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE Second Judicial District of the State of Nevada, in and for the county of Washoe.—The State of Nevada sends to Ceresa Gerunia, Antonio Bovario, and —— Lopori, co-partners doing business under the firm name and style of Ceresa Gerunia & Co., greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendants by James Mayberry as plaintiff in the District Court of the Second Judicial District, in and for the county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this summons, (exclusive of the day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover a judgment against you, the defendants, for the sum of Three Thousand, Ninety-four and 26-100 Dollars.($3,094 26) gold coin of the United States, in favor of the plaintiff, said sum being a balance due the plaintiff on an account for goods, wares and merchandise sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendants at their especial instance and request; also for board of men (employees of defendants) and horse feed obtained at the special instance and request of defendants from plaintiff; said account commencing on or about the 1st day of October, A. D. 1875, and ending on the 17th day of December, A. D. 1876, the whole of said account amounting to the sum of $12,094 26, on which there was paid the sum of $9,000, leaving the sum of $3,094 26 balance due as aforesaid, all of which will more fully appear from the complaint which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said county. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will take judgment for the said amount, besides interest and costs of suit.

{seal} In testimony whereof, I, P. B Comstock, have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court, this 31st day of August, A. D. 1877.

WATCHES!! JEWELRY!!

ROMAINE GOLD.

SO EXTENSIVELY WORN IN PARIS, was first discovered in 1870, by the celebrated French chemist, Mons. D. De Dainge, who manufactured it into jewelry, and for five years sold it to the leading jewelers of Paris for Solid Gold. In 1875, when his secret became known, ten of the manufacturing jewelers established a stock company, with a capital of $10,000,000 for the purpose of manufacturing Romaine Gold Jewelry and Watches. With this immense capital and the aid of improved machinery, they are enabled to produce all the latest patterns of jewelry at less than one-tenth the cost of solid gold, and of a quality and color which makes it impossible even for experts to detect it from the genuine.

We have secured the exclusive agency of the United States and Canada, for the sale of all goods manufactured from this metal, and in order to introduce them in the most speedy manner, have put up assorted sample lots as given below, which we will sell at one-tenth the retail value until January 1st, 1878. Read the list.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY'S

Private Medical Institute.

209, KEARNEY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO.

Established in 1854,

For the Permanent Cure of all Special and Chronic Diseases, as also all Female Complaints and Diseases of the Nervous System.

THE IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF human life annually from secret and chronic diseases, caused this old and reliable institution to be established, first in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1850, and afterwards in San Francisco, Cal., in 1854, as a private dispensary, in order to afford the afflicted the best medical and surgical treatment for the above and all other affections and complaints. Consultation at the Institute, or by letter, FREE.

To the Afflicted:

Dr. L. J. Czapkay would most respectfully Inform the public of the Pacific coast that, at the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, and hundreds of those unfortunately afflicted with disease, he has reopened his MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE and resumed the practice of his profession The Doctor would remind all those who are in need of medical aid, that since relinquishing his very extensive and successful practice in San Francisco, he has visited the principal cities in Europe, inspecting diligently the experience of the most learned in the profession, the benefit from which he offers to all in need of his services. Rheumatic affections, chronic catarrh, diseases of the stomach and kidneys, liver complaints, etc., successfully treated. Those who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, physical and mental debility, are assured of a permanent cure. Charges moderate. All communication strictly confidential. Medicines sent by express. Address,
